H. H. THE NIZAM'S GUARANTEED STATE RAILWAY Co., Ld.

ADVERTISING AT RAILWAY STATIONS.

THE PROPRIETOR of the Bombay Gazette Press, having leased from the NIZAM'S STATE RAILWAY COMPANY the exclusive right of advertising at all the Railway Stations belonging to the Company, is prepared to contract with parties desirous of posting notices or advertisements on the lines.

The Cantonment of SECUNDERABAD, as is well known, contains the largest military garrison in India—a garrison comprising over 5,000 British and native troops. Contiguous to it is the Cantonment of BOLARUM, garrisoned by two regiments and one battery of the Hyderabad Contingent, all officered by Europeans. South of Secunderabad, about 4 miles, are the suburbs of Hyderabad, containing the Nizam's regular troops, about 6,000 in number, officered mostly by Europeans—besides a large civil population. It would manifestly be advantageous to firms to advertise at the stations on the above railway, the most important of which are SECUNDERABAD, HYDRABAD, GANGAWARUM, and TANDUR.

The announcements may be in English or in any of the NATIVE LANGUAGES.

INSURANCE COMPANIES, SHIPPING COMPANIES, HOTEL-KEEPERS, MERCHANTS, TRADERS, and others who wish to force their business on the notice of the public, all alike value the privilege of Railway Station Advertising.

Here is no reason why the privilege should not be also specially valuable to Advertisers in India looking to the great and increasing number of Native Railway Passengers on the two trunk lines on Western India. Native Merchants, Traders, &c., seeing that they have the privilege of advertising in their own language, would find the publication of their announcements at Railway Stations an infallible means of extending their business.

Advertisers can select the Station at which they wish their Placards posted, and may advertise for any period fast may be agreed on. The charges have been fixed on an extremely moderate scale to encourage Advertisers to make a liberal use of the new means now offered of making announcements known to the public.

Placards, according to the taste of Advertisers may be printed at moderate charge in ENGLISH or any of the NATIVE LANGUAGES at the Bombay Gazette Press. Estimates on application.

RATES.

Board not exceeding 2 feet long and 2 feet broad Re. 1 per month. For every additional square foot annas 2.

Thus a 6-m exhibiting a board, say 4 square feet will have the advantage of having their business advertisement read by thousands of Passengers on the station platform for the trifling monthly expenditure of Re. 1. Parties advertising on six stations or more will be allowed a discount of ten per cent. Twelve Stations or more, twenty-five per cent.

The boards to be delivered at the Bombay Gazette Office, whence they will be sent by the Lessee to the various stations selected by the Advertiser. In the event of the contract terminating, the boards will be brought back to Bombay at the expense and risk of the Advertiser.

Special arrangements for terms periods.

For further particulars apply to the Manager of the "Bombay Gazette" Office, Esplanade Road Fort.

HUBBUCK'S PATENT WHITE ZINC PAINT.

TO Architects, Contractors, Dock Companies, Mill Owners, Railway Companies, Ship Owners and all who are desirous of obtaining a reliable and durable Paint, THOMAS HUBBUCK AND SON (the original Patentees of White Zinc Paint) beg to inform the above that "HUBBUCK'S GENUINE PATENT WHITE ZINC PAINT AND OILS" can always be obtained of the undermentioned well known Firms in Bombay. This Paint has successfully stood the test of all climates for many years, and has an ever increasing demand; it is far superior in pureness of colour, in body, in tineness, and lasting properties to any other Paint; retains its color, and when mixed with HUBBUCK'S PALE BOILED LINSEED OIL does not crack or blister, and is not effected by atmospheric changes, salt water, or gas). THOMAS HUBBUCK AND SON knowing the importance of such a Paint to the above, trust their Friends will continue to use this world-renowned HUBBUCK'S PATENT WHITE ZINC PAINT, the quality of which never varies

HUBBUCK'S PALE BOILED LINSEED OIL.

THOS. HUBBUCK & SON d sire to call attention to their special PALE BOILED LINSEED OIL. This OIL is paler than Raw Linseed Oil and therefore does not discolor White or other delicate colors. By their patent process all the fatty matter (which renders Paint freezing and sticky) is extracted, making the Paint mixed with this oil dry quickly with a perfectly hard and smooth surface, prevents blistering, and is therefore consequently much more durable. This Oil has been successfully in use for many years in China, Japan, the West Indies, the Straits Settlements, Burmah, &c. One trial will show the importance of this Oil in a climate like India, and will cause it to become in general demand through India. THOS. HUBBUCK & SON ship only GENUINE OILS and TURPENTINE, and therefore, trust their Friends will not, when ordering HUBBUCK'S PAINTS, that they also get HUBBUCK'S GENUINE OILS and TURPENTINE. Good Paint is destroyed by using an inferior Oil.

ROBBING A CHILD.—Inspector Good charged Ranjee Gunpat yesterday, at the Girgaum Police Court, before Mr. P. Ryan, with stealing a silver anklet, valued at Rs. 2-8, from the child of a woman named Posani, on Thursday evening last. It appears the woman Posani had her child in her arms and was standing at a fish stall in Cammatapoora Eighth Street, making purchases, when the accused was observed removing the silver anklet from the child and making off with it, when he was arrested with the stolen property in his possession and handed over to the police. Ranjee Gunput, on pleading guilty to the charge, was convicted and sentenced to nine months' rigorous imprisonment.

A verdict was recorded accordingly.

THIRD CRIMINAL SESSIONS.

THE business of the third Criminal Sessions of the High Court commenced yesterday before the Hon. Mr. Justice Farran and a common jury.

THE BHOWNUGGER DEFAMATION CASES.

The Hon. Mr. Macpherson, Advocate-General, said he…fa in the three cases known as the Bhownugger court whe… Cases, he was instructed to submit to the "these cases ought not to be tried by special juries." It was a matter entirely in the discretion of the cou… but there was a precedent in favour of such an applic…ion. The only precedent of which the learned counse… was aware, was in a case of a similar character in whi… the trial was held before a special jury. The case was for the trial of a charge of defamation in the matter of Mr. Barre, arising out of the accusations made against the Kolapore Durbar. The sec…ion of the Act left the matter entirely to the discretion of the courts, there being nothing in it to point out in any way what consideration should influence the mind of the court. He (the Advocate-Gen…al) or behalf of the prosecution only said that they w…ld prefer the case being submitted to a special jury on public grounds. The issues were important, not only between the parties concerned, but also because they had a certain public importance in so far as the trial would to a certain extent determine what were the proper limits of the license which was to be allowed to the press, and more particularly to the native press. It was very desirable in these days that these limits should be properly determined and settled.

His lordship in granting the application observed that it would be better if these cases were submitted to the consideration of special juries.

EXEMPTION FROM SERVICE ON THE JURY.

Mr. Lang, instructed by Messrs. Conroy and Brown, on behalf of the Bank of Bombay, applied that Mr. James Begbie, accountant in the Bank, who was summoned to serve on the special jury, might be exempted from service, as his duties were of an important character, his constant attention being required in the different departments, and his absence from the Bank premises would cause much inconvenience. His lordship granted the application.

CULPABLE HOMICIDE AT A POONA BILLIARD SALOON.

William Banner, S. Foley, and A. Edwards, soldiers in the Worcestershire Regiment, stationed at Poona, were charged with culpable homicide not amounting to murder, committed at Poona on the 15th May last, in causing the death of Dhondee, a choranwalla ; also with voluntarily causing him grievous hurt and simple hurt. Foley and Edwards were further charged with causing simple hurt to Abdool Hoossin, alias Essubjee. Foley pleaded guilty to the charge of assaulting Essubjee. All the prisoners claimed to be tried with regard to the other charges. The Hon. Mr. Macpherson, with Mr. Russell, instructed by the Public Prosecutor, appeared for the prosecution ; and Mr. Chitty defended the prisoners.

The Advocate-General, in opening the case, read the sections of the Penal Code bearing on the charges on which the three accused claimed to be tried. He then proceeded to say that the charges arose out of a quarrel, in itself of a comparatively trifling origin, which took place at Poona on the 15th May last between the second prisoner Foley and a Mahomedan named Abdool Hoosein. On that afternoon, between the hours of 3 and 4 o'clock, the prisoners and some other soldiers of the Worcestershire Regiment were in a billiard room at Poona in the rear of Main Street and near the cantonment garden, the proprietor of which room was Abdul Hoosein. The second prisoner, Foley, having asked the marker of the billiard room if there was any latrine accommodation, and on his being answered in the negative, went outside in front of the next door premises, which also belonged to Abdul Hoosein. On his return Foley met Abdul Hoosein, who was then accompanied by another Mahomedan named Peerbhoy Adamjee, and Abdul remonstrated with Foley. After more or less discussion —rather less than more— Foley knocked Abdul down. The result of this was that there was a considerable outcry on the part of the other Mahomedan, and there immediately came a man named Dhondee, a goralla, in the employ of Abdul, who met with his death shortly afterwards. On ascertaining that Foley was the man who had knocked down Abdul, Dhondee caught hold of Foley by his shirt sleeve or some portion of his garment, and tried to drag him outside the room. Foley resisted, and there ensued a struggle. There would be conflicting evidence on this point, as a majority of the witnesses would depose that the prisoner Edwards, who was in the door-way or near the billiard-room, assisted Foley by catching hold of Dhondee and dragging him into the room with the object of giving him a beating inside the room. There would be, the Advocate-General said, a want of unanimity upon that part of the case. The prisoner Edwards denied having ever dragged Dhondee into the room. When the whole of the facts would be placed before the jury, there could be no doubt that Dhondee had been dragged into the room, and a violent blow with the weapon (a formidable-looking stick) was struck on his head. Witnesses would tell the jury that the stick had been picked up by the first prisoner, Banner, been picked up by the first prisoner, Banner, outside the room. There would be again a conflict of evidence on that point. There would also be some conflict of evidence regarding the point whether or not Dhondee had been followed into the billiard-room by a number of natives. Thomas, who was a comrade of the prisoners, and who would be examined as a witness for the prosecution, would, contradicting other witnesses, depose that a number of natives followed Dhondee into the billiard-room. The native witnesses would deny that any natives followed Dhondee into the room, or that they were there when Dhondee was struck with the stick. Thomas would say that there was a regular row about twenty or a larger number of natives having flocked into the room ; that the stick was in the hands of Dhondee, who was lashing it out, and that while he was so doing, the stick dropped out of his hands, and it was picked up by Banner, who struck Dhondee with it. Banner virtually admitted, and it would be proved to the entire satisfaction of the jury, that the blow with the stick was given by him. It would, however, be in evidence that Banner did not aim the blow at the head of the deceased. He had aimed the blow at the back of the deceased, who, however, at a critical moment, raised his head and the stick descended on it instead of the back, and he died in hospital shortly afterwards from the effects of the blow. The police soon came on the scene, but the soldiers had then separated, some running and others walking away, and none of them admitting at the time that they knew anything about the affair, except the man Thomas, who was in the billiard-room and saw the blow given to the deceased. These were the brief outlines of the case, and it would be for the jury to consider upon which of the charges the prisoners should be convicted. The case was of a simple character, but the only exceptional matter—if it was an exceptional matter—consisted in the circumstance that the unfortunate man, whose death was caused was a native and that the accused were British soldiers, and further, from the fact that the testimony given by the natives would be against the accused, and that given by Thomas and other European witnesses, who might perhaps, if thought advisable, be called for the prosecution, would as far as possible be in favour of the accused. As the evidence, both for the prosecution as well as the defence, might perhaps unconsciously to some extent be coloured, it behoved the jury under the circumstances, to scan and scrutinise the evidence very closely in order that they might arrive at a just and satisfactory verdict. The purpose of the prosecution was not wrongfully to obtain a conviction against the prisoners, nor, on the other hand, in the slightest degree to mitigate the gravity of their offence as established by the facts when elicited in evidence before the jury. It would be premature at that stage for the learned counsel to go into anything like a discussion of how the evidence bore upon the charges, but he would do so when he summed up the evidence on behalf of the pro… cution, or in his reply on the whole case… learned counsel on the other side call… defence. The witnesses would… and it would be for the j… the matter and the…

Cross-examined by Mr. Russell : When Foley came in and the natives rushed after him, I was the only soldier who went up to the door. All of them were not armed with sticks. I saw three sticks in the room. Edwards did not go up with me to the door. None of us tried to prevent the natives from coming in while we were playing. I did not know the cause of their rushing in. Dhondee came at me without any reason for it. He had in his hand a thick stick like the one produced in court. There were three or four with puggrees, like the Borahs. Some of them were in rags, and some of them had clean black coats and trousers.

The Judge : Do you mean Europeans ?

Witness : No, natives. One man came in from the crowd dressed like that. Dhondee held up the stick with both his hands and hit at me as hard as ever he could. It left a wound on my left fore-finger. I did not show it to Thomas or tell him I had it. It was a blow struck with all the man's strength. I showed the wound to the magistrate three or four days after the occurrence. I won't swear that I showed it to Inspector Guider. I did not see the stick strike anybody else. Banner and Dhondee struggled for the stick three or four seconds. Although the struggle was at my feet, I cannot say who picked up the stick. I did not show Constable Lowe the wound on my hand. No attempt has been made to discover any of the thirty natives who had rushed into the room.

The Court here adjourned until 10-30 this (Saturday) morning.

SEQUEL TO THE RECENT THANA SCANDAL.

COOVERBAI, the young Parsee woman, who figured so prominently in this case in August last, was placed before Mr. Jehangir Manockjee Cursetjee, First Class Magistrate, Thana, yesterday on a charge of perjury. Both the father and brother of the accused were examined as to the nature of the evidence given by the accused in the case of Dadabhoy Dinshaw and Shapurji Adarjee, which was tried before the court in August last. Both witnesses having stated that they recollected the accused mentioning in the course of her examination that neither her father nor brother travelled down from Bombay to Thana with her in the same train on the 22nd May that year. His Worship after putting in their previous evidence asked the counsel for the defence if he wished for anything further to be done in the matter.

On Mr. Soonawalla remarking that he would reserve his cross-examination for another time his Worship examined the accused, who said : I remember the case alluded to, and admit that in the course of my evidence given on that occasion I did say that neither my father nor brother travelled with me to Thana in the same train. I desire to reserve what I have to say for the Sessions.

His Worship then framed the following charge :—

I, Jehangir Manockjee Cursetjee, First Class Magistrate, charge you, Cooverbai Eduljee, that you on or about the 3rd and 9th day of August last at Thana, being legally bound by an oath, did state in the course of your examination before this court in the case of Dadabhoy Dinshaw and Shapurjee Adarjee, that neither your father nor your brother travelled with you in the same train from Bombay to Thana on the 22nd day of May 1889. Such statement being false which you either knew or believed to be false and thereby committed an offence punishable under section 193 of the I. P. C. I hereby direct that you be tried by the Court of Sessions on the said charge on the 7th July next.

The accused was again permitted to be released on the former terms of bail.

CRICKET AT POONA.

POONA vs. KIRKEE AND GUNNESHKHIND.

THE long-looked forward to match between the representatives of Poona and those of Kirkee and Gunneshkhind, which was to mark the first appearance of Lord Harris on an Indian cricket field, came off on the Poona Gymkhana ground on Thursday. The attendance of the spectators was larger than we have seen it for many a long day. Among those who watched the match from the pavilion were Lady Harris and H. E. Sir George Greaves. The chief interest of the game centred in the person of Lord Harris, and many were curious to see how he would shape. The invaders were fortunate enough to win the toss, and were represented at the wickets by Colonel Rhodes and Mr. Cox. Great expectations were formed of this partnership, it was well-known that they were two sterling batsmen, and the attacking powers were admittedly weak. But the glorious uncertainty of cricket was never better exemplified than in this case. Both men began well, and soon got set, but a misjudged run was the cause of Cox's downfall, and Rhodes did not long survive him. Von Donop came off remarkably well with the ball. A rot set in among the batsmen, and no less than five of their best wickets fell for 28 runs. Clowes did not prove a deadly bowler, though many runs were not made off him. When Lord Harris and Capt. Muspratt-Williams got together the hopes of the invaders began to rise. The former settled down to his work at once, and played the correctest of cricket, never gave even the semblance of a chance, and now and again dashed out brilliantly. His partner was lucky, though some of his runs were got by good play. The bowling was collared, and the fielders had a fair amount of hunting. The partnership lasted over an hour and yielded 73 runs. Lord Harris (37). Capt. Muspratt-Williams (36). The play after the separation of these two was tame, the tail being very weak. The fielding of the Poona men was far better than we expected, some men being conspicuous, Mr. Young in particular who caught Colonel Rhodes very smartly. The bowling, however, was their weak point.

The innings of the Poonaites was a disappointment, its saving feature being the capital play of Mr. Young, who was responsible for 45 runs out of 70 made off the bat. He took very kindly to Colonel Rhodes. The fielding of visitors was not particularly smart, although Lord Harris gave them a lesson in backing up which all who witnessed it should profit by. The Kirkee men went in for their second venture shortly after half-past four o'clock. But there was nothing remarkable about it except the superb innings played by Lord Harris. This was the first occasion on which the people of Poona witnessed an exhibition of first class cricket, played by a first class exponent of the game. Lord Harris was set at once, and [illegible] nate fielders were given a bad hour… field. The batsman broke the… the game while he was in… was cheered vociferously… his height when he… drive for six. …was made he was clean bowled by Barnes. 15-3-4. Wilkins was given l. b. w. before he had time to score, three more runs and Fitzclarence was given l. b. w. to Stockdale. 18-5-0. Thomas and Young were then together, and the monotony of the game was broken. Thomas had a succession of pretty outs, and then Young hit Barnes to square leg for 4. The score was gradually raised to 30 when Young square cut Barnes for 3, and Thomas sent the next ball from the same bowler to long leg for 4 (run out). The batsmen continued a careful steady game, each taking his fair share of the work. The batting was at this stage of the game somewhat wild, the wicket keeper especially being weak. Young drove Stockdale very cleanly to the boundary, but the next ball, a full pitch to leg, he let off ; he made up for this, however, by getting two immediately afterwards, which completed the half century. Barnes here surrendered to Rhodes (slow underhand). Thomas hit to leg for a single and Young hit a boundary also to leg. Young then gave a hard catch to the bowler which though well tried, was just missed. The next ball was driven to the boundary for 4. Barnes took the ball from Stockdale at the Council Hall end. Young gave a hard catch off Rhodes to Harvest at long leg, which was refused and the hit resulted in a four. In the succeeding over Thomas was clean bowled by Barnes 68-6-14 Thomas' was an invaluable innings to his side. He was sent in just in time, and by stubborn resistance turned the tide which seemed to have set dead against the local men. Clowes, the next man, was bowled off his pads. Levinge was next to join Young, who was playing well. Rhodes gave place to Stockdale, who took Leving's middle stump, 69-8-0. Gordon followed and Young hit a boundary over the bowler's head. This he supplemented by sending one from the same bowler to the road for 3, and Gordon then retired bowled by Stockdale. Purvis was Young's last partner, the innings closed for 88, to which Young contributed 45 in good style, and with few mistakes.

The invaders began their second venture with Cox and Rhodes who were opposed to Clowes and Von Donop. The game was slow, and soon after the commencement Cox, who had only one notch against his name, was caught by Gordon off Purvis after notching single. Rhodes soon followed him to the pavilion, and then Lord Harris joined Barnes and put a different complexion on the game. He opened with a three splendid innings, the finest that has ever been witnessed on our ground. All the local talent in the way of bowling was tried against him, but to no purpose. He gave his partners nothing to do, but ran and hit as he pleased the downfall of three, when Muspratt-Williams joined him, and the runs came on apace. Boundaries were the order of the day, but the finest thing in the innings was a superb drive for 6, which called forth applause from the spectators, who must have numbered over a thousand. When time was called at 6-30 p.m. the partners were still at the wickets, Lord Harris having scored 106 in a little over an hour. On his return to the pavilion he was greeted with a regular ovation, and had it not been for his position would have been carried out. His innings was made up of one 6, nine 4's, ten 3's, ten 2's and fourteen singles. The following is the full score :—

CAUTION TO PARENTS.
PARENTS are invited to bring their children while still young to have their sight tested, free of charge.
Myopia, or Near-sight, is very common, particularly in the Parsi community, and it is generally hereditary a prime cause ground for near-sighted parents to suspect its existence in their children.
This defect imposes the necessity of using the unassisted eyes at too short a range, and the tension of accommodation and convergence required to do this, increases the Myopia rapidly in youth, besides often producing other still more disastrous consequences. If on the other hand suitable glasses are worn, the eyes will not be subjected to this strain, and the sight will not undergo this lamentable deterioration, a. School and College.
To present the whole case it ought to be added, that the injury when done, is permanent and incurable, and parents will realize how important it is, that this otherwise progressive defect, should be recognised and corrected, at dates, when the child begins to study.

[illegible] at Wedd[illegible] for 4[illegible] per cent[illegible] Indian Sterling [illegible] Bank's buying rate [illegible] unaltered at 1s. 6[illegible] were unchanged at 91[illegible] a centime higher, at fcs. 2[illegible]

The weekly returns of th[illegible] England issued yesterday disclose a f[illegible] decrease of 2 per cent. in the Bank's Reserve since the previous Wednesday, making the Reserve stand at 37 per cent of the Liabilities. The increasing dearness of money in the head-quarters of finance has been lately indicated by the advance in the market rates of discount, and the concurrent decline in Consols; and yesterday the Bank rate was put up one per cent., making it 4 per cent., while in the market rates there was a further and considerable advance, say of 1½ per cent. on short London Bills, and of ½ on Indian Bank Paper, at 4½ and 4¼ per cent., respectively.

Bombay Linseed both on the spot and to arrive was 3d. per quarter higher, at 44s. and 43s. 6d., respectively, ex quay. Quotations for Wheat come unaltered.

The Liverpool Cotton market closed firm last evening; Surats quiet; some increase in business being shown by the total Sales, which had aggregated 10,000 bales, but again including only 600 Surats. The price of Mid.-American remained at 6 7-16d., but "Fully Good" Broach and "Good" Hingunghat were 1-16 lower, at 5¾d. and 5¼d. per lb., respectively. American Arrivals were 1 64d. to 1-32d. higher at 6 11-32d. for June deliveries, and 5 27-32d. for October-November. The day's imports were 18,000 bales. The Manchester market was quiet.

Steady Mid.-Uplands recovered 1-16 cent of Wednesday's decline yesterday, being quoted at 11 15-16 cents; but September Futures were three points lower, at 10 85 cents, Futures for August being unaltered at 11·57 cents. The Receipts at the U. S. Ports were 1,000 bales.

We have again had a quiet market for the staple here to-day, the reported Sales summing up about 500 bales, consisting of Khangaum, at Rs. 187; Julgaum, at Rs. 180; Wadwan, at Rs. 162; and Dharwar, at Rs. 185 per candy, prices being quoted as before.

WHEAT.—Little fresh business has transpired in this market to-day, the line having been quiet, and prices unchanged.

SEEDS also have been taken to a very limited extent, but previous rates are maintained, though the feeling is still quiet, notwithstanding the enhanced quotations from the other side.

The Receipts of Produce into Bombay yesterday were as follows:—

Cotton	2,103 bales.
Wheat	10,687 cwt.
Linseed	3,420 ,,
Groundnuts	624 ,,
Castor Seed	1,141 ,,

FREIGHTS keep dull without quotable change in rates. The Rubattino line booked cargo yesterday for January-May 1891 shipment at Rs. 15 for Cotton; Rs. 13½ for Linseed; and Rs. 12½ per ton for other Seeds and Wheat, old scale; but no fresh business of importance has transpired to-day.

EXCHANGE has been quieter to-day. There were still drawers of Demand at 1s. 9d.; but the almost total absence of a supply of Merchants' Bills drove the buying rate down to 1s. 6 9 16d. A sudden demand for remittance set in late in the day, which in the absence of cover, the Banks declined to meet, and quotations became nominal. Three months' sight Credits remained nominally at 1s. 6 9-16d., but no Bills came out to test the market. We quote:—

Bank Bills on Demand	1s. 65-16d. per rupee nominal;
Do. Telegraphic	1s. 6 9-32d. ,, no sellers.
Do. 3 months' sight	1s. 6 15-32d. ,,
Credits ,,	1s. 6 9-16d. ,,
France ,,	1·95 ,,

GOVERNMENT PAPER remained steady during the greater part of the day at 102¾ for Four per cents. in all positions; but towards the close a firmer feeling was apparent, and an advance of 1-16 per cent. was established, the final rate having been 102 15-16. For 4½ per cents. 105¼ is still the nominal rate.

SHARES have been quiet; but we report a decline of Rs. 30 in Colaba Land and Mill shares; of Rs. 15 in Fraunji Petit; and Rs. 10 in Khuttao Macanji, at our quotations. Fort Press shares are Rs. 25 lower at Rs. 1,150; and Mofussil are Rs. 5 down at Rs. 442), Bombay-Burma Trading are Rs. 60 lower for the first issue, at Rs. 3,350, and Rs. 10 down for the new issue, at Rs. 840. Prince of Wales Fire are Rs. 50 down at Rs. 1,400.

The Bombay Gazette

SATURDAY, JUNE 28, 1890.

THE life of Havelock which Mr. Archibald Forbes has contributed to Macmillan's "Men of Action" series is the most graphic and lifelike of the portraits thus far comprised in that admirable gallery of heroes. The effort has given Mr. Forbes an opportunity for the exercise of some of his best literary characteristics, and he has used the opportunity effectively and with discrimination. He has, it is true, been no more fortunate than other biographers have been in escaping the pitfalls of personal controversy. He has had a little quarrel with Lord Wolseley about an episode which really had no place in Havelock's life. An unfortunate and perhaps unnecessary reference in a foot-note to "another officer who has since risen to distinction" as having accepted the credit for planting the flag upon the roof of the mess-house of Lucknow has involved him in a correspondence with the officer referred to, with the result that while Lord Wolseley has been cleared from the insinuation, Mr. Forbes stands acquitted of carelessness on plain proof that Lord Wolseley had vouched for the literal accuracy of a history of his own career in which he was credited with the exploit which he now disowns. This apart, the latest biography of Havelock is a book without flaw, and in the writing of it Mr. Forbes has done a national service. The book, indeed, is an act of hero-worship, free from the faults and the extravagances of the culte. Havelock, when all is said, grows somewhat slowly in the esteem and admiration of those who watch his career. He had all the hardness and the rigidity which comes of Scandinavian ancestry. The boy who complained of a change of masters at the Charterhouse because it brought with it a relaxation of the sterner discipline of the old regime became a man too stern and unbending to rapidly win the esteem of those who came near to him. It was only in the very last year of his life that his real greatness came out, and evoked for him a personal enthusiasm warm enough to constitute the glow in which his life's sun sank from the sight of men. The Puritan soldier makes his way slowly into the heart of his comrades. But when once he has conquered a place there he holds it on an enduring tenure. Cromwell, with his aversion to what the most characteristic of his biographers has contemptuously called "rose-water surgery," was scarcely more relentless than this pious soldier in his estimate of the punishment that should be meastred out upon those who were delivered into his hands. His idea of the right way of dealing with rebels and malefactors was essentially that of the Prophet Samuel. To him they seemed to be all Amalekites, their kings to be all Agags. He thought, for example, that Pollock's punishment of the Afghans was much too tame; that our policy in regard to them should have been one of complete subjugation. The Gwalior rebels, too, he held, should have been smashed outright; and here, again, the war should have been one of subjugation. It would not be difficult to find amongst recent occupants of high command in India, soldiers as stern as Havelock, whose sternness has been emphasised rather than tempered by strong religious instincts. His religion, indeed, gave as much colour to his military as to his personal life. The God of Battles was expressly recognised in his orders of the day, and in his addresses to his men. The order of the day in which he celebrated his first victory on the march to Cawnpore has been cited by one of his biographers as a sample of his Cromwellian many-sidedness. The general, indeed, who could attribute victory to the rapidity and precision of his artillery, to the power of the Enfield rifle, to British pluck, and "to the blessing of Almighty God in a most righteous cause," had surely sat at the feet of Old Noll.

Havelock had been originally intended for the legal profession, and, two years before Waterloo, had entered the Middle Temple. But his father's pecuniary embarrassments cut short his legal career, and drove him into the army; the influence of his brother, who had fought in the Peninsula, gaining him a commission in the old 95th, now the Rifle Brigade. In 1823 he exchanged into the 13th Light Infantry, and came to India in good time to take part in Lord Amherst's expedition to Burma. He had a staff appointment during the expedition, but seems to have done nothing more remarkable in connection with it than write an exceedingly ponderous history of the expedition. It is illustrative of the difference between now and then that Havelock had to wait until he was forty-three and had done 23 years' service before he attained without purchase the substantive rank of captain. He seems to have grumbled at the slowness with which promotion came to him; but not more petulantly than the late Sir Charles MacGregor did, and Sir Charles at 40 and after 24 years' service was a local major-general. Mr. Forbes, however, thinks that Havelock grumbled without reason. Wherever he was and in whatever service, Havelock spent his time well. He was singular amongst the soldiers of his day and generation [illegible] himself thoroughly acquainted with [illegible] science of his profession. He [illegible]ms of Frederic, of Marl[illegible] of early and later [illegible] except [illegible] out [illegible] ever [illegible] a division. He took part in the short [illegible] easy operations against Mohmuna, and [illegible]n came to an end, just in time, as it pr[illegible]sed, to reserve the forces engaged in it for m[illegible] serious and bloody work elsewhere. This last glorious period in Havelock's life Mr. Forbes tells the story in nervous, moving phrases, in every way worthy of the hero and of the heroes who fought under him. The story, it is true, has been told often, but it has never been told better and seldom as well. Havelock had been introduced to Lord Canning by Sir Patrick Grant in the informal but significant praise, "Your Excellency, I have brought you the man." The "man" was re-commissioned as Brigadier General, and was sent at once to Allahabad with instructions, after having quelled all disturbances there, to lose not a moment in supporting Sir Hugh Wheeler at Cawnpore, and Sir Henry Lawrence at Lucknow. There is no need to say more of Mr. Forbes's account of that world-famous march on Lucknow than that those who are most familiar with the history of the Mutiny will read it with most pleasure. The toils and privations of the march, the cheerfulness with which they were borne, the self-sacrificing heroism of every man in the ragged, toilworn, company, and the magnetic influence which the gallant old commander exercised over all ranks, have never been more worthily appreciated than they are in Mr. Forbes's glowing yet discriminating pages. Mr. Forbes now and again drops history and takes up criticism. But this he nowhere does unduly, and he is in the main just in his observations. No one, we suppose, will quarrel with him for pointing out the serious inconvenience that resulted from General Outram's magnanimous self-abnegation in allowing the command to continue in Havelock's hands after he himself had been appointed to the command of the Cawnpore division. To Outram's generosity we owe it that the entrance into the Lucknow Residency was cost

THE ANNULAR ECLIPSE.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

SIMLA, JUNE 27.

At Lahore the eclipse was very distinct. The meteorological records of that day just received show that the phenomenon had little effect upon the temperature, as the continuous-recording instruments showed little change, except in the case of the sun thermometer. That instrument shows a fall of ten degrees between two and three o'clock in the afternoon, and eighteen degrees between three and four, and nine degrees between four and five o'clock.

The ordinary thermometer shows that the maximum occurred at two p.m., which is earlier than usual, and fell very slowly till four; then it fell suddenly one degree at first, when the eclipse was at its height.

The large falls of temperature reported from [illegible] are known probably erroneous.

THE FATALITY AT DAPOORI BREWERY.

A CORRECTION.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

POONA, JUNE 27.

Last night's telegram concerning the death of Mr. Scott at the Dapoori Brewery, should read as follows:—

Mr. Scott, the Engineer and Superintendent of the Deccan Brewery at Dapoori, near Poona, met with his death in a terribly sad way last evening. He was found drowned in one of the vats. It is supposed that when going round the works, according to his usual practice, he was overpowered by the fumes of carbonic acid gas, and that, being near one of the vats, he fell in. Great sympathy is felt for his invalid widow in England and for the bereaved daughters, who returned to their home at Dapoori, after spending the evening in Poona, to find their father dead.

THE LIBEL ON MAJOR FERRIS.

On the 23rd instant, at Ahmedabad, Khan Bahadoor Dosthoo, the City Magistrate, gave the following judgment in the Major Ferris case :—

The accused Girjashanker Kashiram, who is the editor, printer, and publisher of a paper named in Bombay and called "The Rajasthan and Swadesh Mitra," is charged with defamation under section 500, Indian Penal Code. The complainant is Major W. H. Ferris, Assistant Political Agent, Kattywar, and the subject matter of the charge is a virulent attack against Political Agents, headed "Great instances showing how public appeals are unheeded against Political Agents." The libellous article, which appears at page 2 in the issue dated 10th September last, is as follows :—" It is a well-known fact that Political Agents [illegible] Native Rajahs, receive bribes, are involved in land practices and act high-handedly. The Government consider the allegation to be false, and we wish that it were so. But the private views of the Government cannot change public opinion, which will be clear with Government only when by means of a public enquiry, it is shown to be unfounded. The Gaekwar case is an instance in point. In the opinion of the public, Mr. Crawford was guilty. [illegible] of Sir James Fergusson believed [illegible] while after the investigation by the Commission of the view of Lord Ripon's [illegible] been found to be [illegible] public about the [illegible] though there was [illegible] ARMY REFORMS. [illegible] book has just been issued in [illegible] history of the recent efforts [illegible] of India to bring about the [illegible] Secretary of State. The first despatch [illegible] is from the Government [illegible] 1886, in which year Lord [illegible] while agreeing to the various [illegible] and reorganisation of the [illegible] to sanction the complete abolition of [illegible] Presidential system on the ground that [illegible] legislative enactments could not be [illegible] during that Session. After receiving Lord [illegible] reply the despatch of the Government of [illegible] years have thus passed since the matter [illegible] stage, and we now feel it our duty to [illegible] upon Her Majesty's Government our [illegible] that this reform should be carried out [illegible] further delay, while the present condition [illegible] enables us to make a change of the kind [illegible] least possible inconvenience. In bringing [illegible] again under consideration, it may be [illegible] to prevent misapprehension, to explain [illegible] that the proposal in question is one [illegible] affects unity of general administration of [illegible] armies for the present divided control. It [illegible] measure of centralisation in the sense of [illegible] the authority of those who are immediately [illegible] with the command of the different [illegible] On the contrary, the effect of the change [illegible] to increase sensibly the functions of the [illegible] Madras and Bombay, [illegible] to these the direct command of the whole [illegible] armies, parts of which have now, under the [illegible] of events, passed away from their immediate [illegible]. And we desire to lay particular stress on [illegible] fact that the maintenance of what remains of the [illegible] dential military government in its present form [illegible] caused the relations of the local Commanders-in-[illegible] to their respective armies to become still more [illegible] and embarrassing than they were when [illegible] proposed to modify that system was first made in [illegible].

The increase of the garrison in Baluchistan and the [illegible] of Upper Burma were specially referred to [illegible] leading to this incongruity and embarrassment. It [illegible] admitted that but little remained of presidential [illegible] system, but what still existed was harmful. The [illegible] Government of India say :—

We view with apprehension the possibility of our being called on at any future time to undertake more extensive military operations while hampered by so faulty a system which violates all the recognised principles of sound military administration, and feel that we should be incurring a grave responsibility if we did not once more place on record our sense of the [illegible] to India [illegible] allowing the reform so strongly [illegible] by our predecessors to be postponed any [illegible].

We have, therefore, submit to your Lordship our [illegible] and deliberate opinion that the time has [illegible] when [illegible] what still remains of the presidential [illegible] should be finally abolished, and the Indian armies should be [illegible] of all the Indian armies should be [illegible] over to the Commander-in-Chief in India, [illegible] in direct communication with the Commanders-[illegible] of the local armies, and under the direct [illegible] orders of the Government of India.

We may here mention two points connected with the change, in addition to what has already been [illegible] previous occasions. First, we think it will [illegible] from what has gone before that while the [illegible] of Madras and Bombay will not be called [illegible] to administer any sensible degree of authority or [illegible] change, the Commanders-in-Chief of those presidencies will [illegible]
